Two-year sentence incenses man shot by his neighbour

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

A Haliburton area man who was shot by his neighbour in August is appalled his attacker has been sentenced to less than two years in jail.

Victor Jones cannot understand how 74-year-old Christian Dam could be given such a short term in prison after admitting he deliberately shot him with a .22-calibre rifle.

"It's ridiculous. It's absolutely ridiculous. It's like a walk in the park for him, really," an exasperated Jones told The Echo Friday.

Dam, who held police at bay in an all-night stand-off before being arrested in his Lutterworth home, was originally charged with attempted murder in the August 7 gun attack on 67-year-old Jones.

However, he avoided trial by pleading guilty to a reduced charge of discharging a firearm with intent to injure in Lindsay Provincial Court last week, said Minden OPP Constable Ron Buchanan.

Dam, who had tried to kill himself in a botched suicide bid before being taken by police, was sentenced to two years less a day in a provincial jail, plus three years probation when he is released.

Jones believes the gunman should have received a stiffer sentence, considering he admitted the attack was planned.

"It was proven in court that he had laid in wait for half an hour for us to come home. So (the shooting) was premeditated ... It was cut and dried, this thing," he maintains.

Jones and his companion, Tracey MacDonald, were ambushed by Dam as they returned to the Lutterworth house they used to lease on an unnamed section of road off Hwy. 35, between Sandy Bay Rd. and the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

Jones was on the porch about to unlock the front door when Dam — his only neighbour on the short, dead-end street — emerged from the bushes at the side of the house, raised the rifle and fired, hitting him in the right shoulder.

As he recuperated in hospital immediately following the shooting, Jones said he believed he would have been shot again had it not been for the courage of his companion, who managed to wrestle the rifle away from the gunman.

She then ran out to the highway and tried to flag down passing motorists.

Though wounded, Jones had the strength to crawl through the bushes to the back door of his house. Once inside he called police.

Dam locked himself in his house, only 200 yards from his neighbour's, and would not respond to police demands to

$180,000 deficit looms for school board

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

With two months remaining in its fiscal year, Haliburton County's school board is facing a possible deficit of more than $180,000.

At Tuesday's meeting, superintendent of business administration Jim Bradley told trustees reduced provincial grants and unexpected expenditures are threatening to put the board's 1995 budget in the red.

However, he predicted the school board would be able to use savings from other areas of its budget to recoup about half of its potential losses.

"I think (the deficit) will come in somewhere around $80,000 to $90,000, and I'd be surprised if it went that high to be perfectly frank," he said in a later interview.

Though it will be difficult for the board to make up for money it has lost in provincial funding, it should be able to cover about $90,000 in unexpected expenditures using funds it budgeted for other purposes but did not use, said Bradley.

Among the expenditures the board did not count on making this year were the purchase of a $22,000 boiler for Gooderham Public School, a new fence at Archie Stouffer Elementary School and the replacement of various items stolen from Victoria Street Public school during a recent break-in.

The board has also had to pay more than anticipated in supply teacher wages due to a higher than usual incidence of staff illness, Bradley said.

In part, the board may be able to cover a portion of these expenses using funds set aside to implement employment equity, which has been trashed by the Tories.

Because last winter was so mild, there may also be money left over from the amount the board set aside to cover heating and utilities, Bradley said.

On top of these expenditures, the board lost close to $20,000 it had already budgeted when the province outlined an early round of cutbacks at the end of the summer.

As well, the board's enrolment this year has dropped by the equivalent of 7.2 high school students and an additional 7.2 elementary students, translating to a further grant loss of about $4,000 per student or $57,600.

Legion invests in cleaner air

We got a call from a reader who loves to play bingo but hated the cigarette smoke at the Haliburton Legion. Well, as part of $20,000 the Legion just spent on renovations, there's a new air filtering system which removes the smoke. Our reader reports that the air conditions are very much improved and that she returned home from a night of bingo without bringing the smell of cigarettes with her. Many people will join in praising the Legion for making such a smart investment in people's health.

Community Living worried about impact of more funding cuts

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

By cutting staff hours two hours a week and trimming costs, the Haliburton County Association for Community Living has been able to cope with funding reductions over the past year.

But there are worries there's nothing left to trim if the province announces even further cutbacks in November.

"I understand the province is in trouble and we have to do our part," says executive director Cheryl Curry. "I just don't want to do any more."

The Association serves approximately 20 people: five in residence, nine in supported independent living and the rest in a day program at the Haliburton centre. Staff must be at the residence 24-hours a day and there is often a lot of one-on-one contact. Altogether there are 16 full- and part-time staff members.

In April, the association was told of a 1% budget cut. Then in June came news of a further 5% cut. Staff cutbacks meant the loss of a full-time equivalent and a reduction 12 days a year per staff member. Yet there are still the same number of people to be served, Curry says. Now they are concerned over what may be in store for them after Finance Minister Ernie Eves' November "mini-budget."

"I'm extremely proud of the staff here. They've worked really hard," says Curry.

One of the ways the local association cut costs was the elimination of a small honorarium for staff who took clients home with them for Christmas. Told that this could no longer be provided, the staff have volunteered to share their Christmases anyway. Curry says she'll work on Boxing Day so the rest of the staff can get two days off in a row.

"We're here for the people we support," she says.

She also believes it's important to concentrate financial resources on the people the association supports. Buildings are a secondary consideration, she says. For instance, the oven door at the resource centre has to be kept closed with a chair and she paid for the wallpaper in her office herself.

"I go to a lot of organizations and they've got air conditioning

FOCUS ON PEOPLE: The Haliburton County Association for Community Living believes in spending its money on the people it supports, not buildings. Here Elena Bjelis takes muffins out of the oven for Dale Jarvis, Ross Anderson and Gloria Kent. When baking, they use a chair to keep the oven door closed.

and prints on the walls and they're complaining," she says. "We put our money into people."

The Association's efforts are emblematic of a shift in philosophies in developmental services.

Before the 1970s, many of the clients were institutionalized. Then, Curry says, there was a real move to acknowledge that the people should be part of the community. In the 1980s, most institutions were closed and local organizations received higher levels of funding to support people both through day programs and residential services.

"With a lot of the closures, the money was supposed to go into community services, and some of it has," she says, "but not near as much as was saved from the reduction of numbers."

She feels there are few alternatives left to the Association. Last year it began fundraising more seriously, starting with a ski challenge at Sir Sam's which brought in $3,000 thanks to the generosity of local businesses and skiers. Yet with budget cuts starting to affect more and more services, she's wondering whether fundraising will be able to pick up all the slack from budget cuts. "It's hard in a small community. There are so many organizations fundraising."

Sending people "home" to their families often isn't an option because many of them are in their 40s and 50s and their parents are too old to take care of them or have died.

The association doesn't want to increase the size of the residence because the whole idea is to create a home-like atmosphere. Living with a dozen people isn't, quote, normal.

Curry says the community could help the association by writing letters of support to the Ministry of Community and Social Services and by supporting fundraising projects. Donations such as lawnmowers for the work crew would also be appreciated.

FINDING LINKS: Alison Logan says Sir Sandford Fleming College's new program will help people find and keep jobs.

Program tailors itself to needs of the unemployed

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Since everyone has different needs and aspirations, a new program at Sir Sandford Fleming College is offering an individualized service to people who are unemployed.

"Link to Employment" will assess people's employment strengths and weaknesses and then tailor a training program to best help them find a job.

"It's a good team working together to help people find and keep long-term jobs," says Alison Logan, who's running the program with Bernie Nicholson and Jan Herringer.

The program is being offered in conjunction with the Haliburton County Employment Centre. There is no cost to clients, but they must be on unemployment insurance or receive social assistance.

"What's different about this program is it's as individualized as we can get it," says Logan. Clients may enter the program at any time.

The first step is an assessment of the client's skills, abilities and limitations. Together they will plan long and short-term goals and find ways to achieve them.

Instead of providing a set program, training will be based on the client's needs. "People don't have time to waste doing things they don't need to," Logan says of the benefits of this approach.

If academic upgrading is needed, that will be offered with a focus on mathematics and communications. Students will also be introduced to keyboarding and basic computer skills, including word processing.

Work placements will be arranged for three days a week. Because there are limited job opportunities in the Highlands, placements may be outside the county, providing the client has transportation.

There is also a component on job searching and other employment-related skills such as resume writing.

"We've had job training in the past with a good success rate of 80 to 85% so we're hoping this will be even more successful," says Logan.

If you are interested in Link to Employment, please contact Logan at Sir Sandford Fleming College, 457-1680 or Lindsey Coates at the employment centre, 457-1316.

Victim plans to launch civil suit against Dam surrender.

Police closed down the highway for fear of motorists possibly being shot by the gunman while dozens of officers, including a SWAT team, surrounded Dam's house.

The next morning at about 7:30 a.m., following more than eight hours of failed negotiations, police stormed the dwelling.

Inside they found the aged man in the bathroom bleeding from self-inflicted knife wounds to his wrists.

Jones says he still doesn't know why he was attacked and Dam, whose lawyer spoke for him on Tuesday, has not given a motive.

"I couldn't understand the whole thing," said Jones.

After the shooting, he and MacDonald could not face moving back into the attractive, wood-sided home they shared. They have since moved to the Haliburton area.

The move cost the couple thousands of dollars in renovations they had made to their Lutterworth home, which they had been leasing to buy, said Jones.

Dam's house, which was for sale at the time of the incident, has since been sold.

Jones, who still has a bullet imbedded in his shoulder, has lost normal use of his right arm and is in continual pain. He faces extensive surgery to join severed nerves, repair his destroyed biceps and remove the bullet.

"My arm is numb from the wrist to the shoulder," he explained.

He plans to launch a civil lawsuit against Dam to try to recuperate the $50,000 he estimates the shooting has cost him in pain and suffering, lost money spent on his former residence and money lost during interruptions to the new business — Bridge View Motors — he had opened with a partner prior to the shooting.

Jones, who moved to the county from Toronto about a year ago, says the shooting incident has not soured his perception of the Highlands.

A LEGACY FOR YOUTH: At Thursday's luncheon, the Haliburton Highlands Senior Citizens Club donated $3,000 to the scholarship fund at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Some of the money will go towards to their Emil Niemann Memorial Bursary, and Jean Levis said the scholarship committee is recommending that the rest of the money be used to start a new scholarship to annually honour two students who exemplify the school's motto of respect, commitment and responsibility. Taking part in the presentation are, from left: Back row: executive members Allan Francis, Doris Moore and Bev Sparks. Front row: Mary Walling, Billie Coulson, Francis Elstone, president Mary Packard and Jean Levis of HHSS. The seniors also gave $3,000 to the Haliburton Hospital.

Slight drop in enrolment contributes to board of education's deficit concern

Director of education Brad Saunders attributed the slight decline in enrolment to a number of families who have been forced to move from the county because of declining employment. He cited Minden Hydro which gave lay-off notices to several workers over the past year.

Bradley said the board could find further savings if the number of students it pays neighbouring boards to educate has also dropped off. Haliburton pays the boards in Muskoka and Hastings about $5,000 per elementary student and $6,000 per high school it sends to them.

However, those two boards have not yet confirmed their enrolment figures with the board, said Bradley.

Young father dies in accident

David Besner known for love of family and Minden area

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The Minden community is stunned by the loss of a young man whose greatest joy was to be with his family and friends.

David Besner died on Monday, Oct. 23 when he fell 11 metres at the construction site of the new Ministry of Natural Resources office in Peterborough.

Only 30 years old, he leaves behind his wife Lisa, their six-week-old son Matthew and dozens of relatives and friends who always enjoyed his enthusiasm for life.

"Their big aim was to get ahead financially and get back home to Minden," says Lisa's cousin, Anne Hewson of Minden. "He was so close to everyone. He was like a kid himself and could mix with everybody."

"He was just such a nice guy," says Susan Beers of the Minden Times, where Lisa worked part-time before she had the baby.

Mrs. Beers was with the couple when they met and immediately formed a friendship which would lead to their marriage two and a half years ago.

"He loved his wife dearly and was just so proud of his baby," Mrs. Beers said.

That love was shared by Lisa, who's 24, and her family. Her parents, Tom and Marilyn Bagshaw, felt David was another son and her brother, Tom Jr., treated David like a brother.

David was born in Kapuskasing but after his father died, his mother, the late Fern Stamp, moved back to the Minden area where she grew up. She passed away last year and the young couple were living in her trailer outside of Lindsay.

Very outgoing, David was active with sports and youth activities, and wanted to turn every occasion into a time for friendship.

He was also hard working. He started as a carpenter at the Peterborough site one week after Matthew was born.

The Peterborough Examiner reports that Peterborough police say David was helping to dismantle scaffolding at 2:55 p.m. when he fell. Other reports say he had just climbed to the top of the scaffolding after a break and had not yet had time to hook up his safety belt.

The Ministry of Labour is doing an investigation and says an inquest will be ordered by the coroner.

The family is very angry about the way Lisa was notified. A woman from the construction company phoned Lisa to tell her to phone Peterborough Civic Hospital and ask for a certain doctor. The doctor bluntly told her that her husband had been killed. Lisa was at home alone with the baby at the time.

The funeral was at Monk's Funeral Home in Minden on Thursday, with memorial donations for the Minden hospital fund.

Lisa and the baby will be living with her parents for the time being.

Minden food bank needs space and volunteers to avoid crisis

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

Already struggling to meet the needs of the community's hungry on a shoe-string budget, organizers of the Minden Community Food Bank fear they are on the brink of "a very real crisis."

The province has just cut welfare benefits by 21.6 per cent. The long hard winter season is on the doorstep.

The food bank needs more space. It needs more volunteers. It needs deeper community involvement. Mostly it just needs more help.

Otherwise, how is the small group going to continue offering a growing list of people in need that little bit extra to help them get through the month?

That's a question Father Brian

Parker of the Anglican Parish of Minden-Kinmount can answer all too readily — it won't.

"We simply feel the food bank as it is now set up cannot continue to meet what promises to be the needs of people in the very near future," he wrote in a letter to Anson, Hindon and Minden council.

To help it through its crisis, he has asked the municipality to consider providing the food bank a public building rent-free or subsidizing its rent at another vacant building.

Not only would this give the food bank — currently housed in a ten-foot by ten-foot room at St. Paul's — more space, but also it would make it more visible.

He points out in the letter that the neighbouring municipality of Dysart et al pays the rent on a building for the 4Cs' food bank, enabling it to use more of its donated funds to help the needy.

As well, Parker says the food bank wants to come under the direction of a board of management made up of community representatives.

On top of these initiatives, the food bank needs to appeal to the community for more volunteers to ensure it has the manpower to meet the demand.

Since the summer of 1994, the food bank has had to cut back its hours of operation to just two hours a week on Saturday mornings because it hasn't had enough volunteers or a great enough income to stay open longer, said Parker.

Councillors, who received Parker's letter just before their meeting Thursday, will discuss the requests at the Nov. 9 meeting.

Police News

On Wednesday, October 25, 1995 at about 12:30 p.m., Shannon Dawn Davis, age 25, of Harcourt, was driving a 1986 Pontiac 6000 westbound on Highway 503 near Head Lake. She encountered two eastbound tractor trailers, each towing one half of a prefabricated house. There was a wide load escort vehicle ahead of these trucks.

The Davis vehicle moved onto the shoulder to pass the first truck, and then came back onto the roadway and the driver lost control and slid sideways into the front of the second truck, a 1988 Ford driven by Christopher Ryan, age 34, of Brussels, Ontario. The impact caused the car to split into two large pieces.

Davis and passengers Gloria Davis, age 51 of Harcourt and Carl Shatraw, age 21 of Harcourt, were taken to the Ross Memorial Hospital and were treated and released.

FACs on order

The Minden OPP has ordered more Firearms Acquisition Certificate application forms after running out of them for the second time.

Detachments across the province have been going through them quickly as gun owners try to beat the Dec. 31 deadline by which current FAC holders can renew them without writing a new test.

After that date, anyone who applies for an FAC will have to write an exam to show they know how to use a gun safely.

Minden OPP hopes to receive the applications some time this week, but advises those who want them to call first (286-1431) to make certain they have arrived.

As long as gun owners who already hold FACs have filed a photocopy of the first page prior to the deadline, they will be clear of rewriting the exam.

Once the proper forms arrive, they will be contacted by the OPP and asked to fill them out.

Board hires consultant to study costs of integrated education

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

The Haliburton County Board of Education wants to figure out how to cut the costs of teaching exceptional students in its regular classrooms without cutting the quality of their education.

Trustees opted Tuesday to hire an outside consultant to give them an objective opinion on how best to lighten the heavy costs of integrated education.

Special education expert Dr. Anne Jordan, hired for $3,000 plus expenses, will spend four days in the county's schools, looking for areas where the board can trim expenses. She will then prepare a report on her findings.

Director of education Brad Saunders said Dr. Jordan conducted a similar study for the Nippissing Board of Education when he was its superintendent a few years ago and pin-pointed various ways to save.

Haliburton's board was recently given a prestigious award by the Ministry of Education, recognizing it as an educational leader for its efforts to teach children with exceptional physical, mental or behavioural difficulties, as well as those regarded as gifted students, alongside "normal" classmates at the county's eight schools.

Last month, however, some board members raised concerns the school system could no longer keep up with the costs of full integration.

Chairwoman Wendy Ladurantaye reasoned the board cannot lose by launching the study.

"If we find out we can save money, then we've won. If the report finds there are no areas we can save, then it gives us documentation that we're giving the best possible service for the lowest fee," she said.

Development corp. wants input on plan

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

The Haliburton County Development Corporation is looking for guidance.

Should it take a more active role in trying to convince outside businesses to relocate to the Highlands?

Now that it has helped initiate a study of the county's forestry industry, which sector should be next? Tourism? Agriculture?

Those are just a couple of the questions the HCDC wants answered.

Before it develops a strategic plan for its next fiscal year, beginning in July, the development corp. is asking for input from the public to tell it where it should focus its efforts.

People are invited to share their views at the HCDC's annual general meeting tomorrow (Wednesday) from 1-3 p.m. at the Wigamog Inn.

"We want to make sure what we're doing is wanted as opposed to what we think is right," said HCDC co-ordinator Bryan Brown.

Among the decisions on the table, those at the meeting could help the corporation determine if there is a desire for it to spend more time chasing down business.

"In the county now there is no economic development attraction function," said Brown. "No one is out there trying to pull business into Haliburton."

However, many of the surrounding communities, such as Peterborough, Muskoka and Huntsville, spend a lot of energy trying to lure business their way, he said.

In some cases prospective businesses end up knocking on the HCDC's door and Brown and manager Andy Campbell do what they can for them, but they could do a lot more if they had the resources to go to tradeshows and try to sell the area via other marketing techniques.

Development corporations in other regions, such as Prince Edward County and Quinte, are paid a fee for service by their county councils so they can devote time to chasing down business.

Maybe the same thing could work here? That's the kind of feedback Brown and Campbell are hoping to get next month.

"There's certainly a lot of interest in this area and I think the interest is a result of the increase in the number of tourists over the past year," said Brown.

After visiting the area on vacation a number of business operators have approached the development corporation about setting up shop in the Highlands.

"We've had about 15 or 20 people over the past six or eight months inquire about moving their businesses here," Brown said.

Since its inception a decade ago the HCDC has done a great deal to promote local business, said Campbell.

It has lent nearly $7.5-million to help existing businesses expand or to lift new ones off the ground.

"The whole idea (of the HCDC) is that if you can assist a business they will create or maintain existing jobs," Campbell said.

The corporation estimates its financial assistance has primarily maintained, but also helped create, more than 1,000 local jobs, he said.

Over the years the HCDC has played a role in numerous community initiatives, often securing funds for groups to carry out strategic plans.

Among others, it helped the county get its hands on $90,000 to put together its recently completed Trails and Tours tourism master plan.

Members of the development corporations board of directors and committees have also served in an advisory capacity to municipalities, local ratepayers associations and the Chamber of Commerce.

While Community Futures used to operate as a separate entity, it merged with the HCDC in the spring. Brown, who used to co-ordinate Community Futures, now looks after the development corporations community economic development programs, while Campbell administers its financial services divisions.

The development corporation's new board comprises members of its previous board as well as some former Community Futures board members.

Those who wish to have input on HCDC's strategic plan for the future but cannot attend the meeting can call Bryan Brown or Andy Campbell at 457-5214.

Students say Yes to Canada

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Instead of sitting in a classroom and learning about Canadian history, a group of high school students decided to be a part of it.

On Friday morning, nine local teenagers headed for Montreal to take part in the massive No rally, full of optimism that their presence would help make a difference in Monday's referendum.

"It's history," says Daniel Selbie. "The referendum is obviously going to be a prominent event in Canadian history."

"In school we're always reading about people who have made history and it was the first time that the opportunity was here for us to be part of it," adds Meaghan Obee.

Together with Cara Donnelly, Derek Rodley, Ryan Ellis, Bobbi Griffin and Mike Hartwick, they loaded into two cars at four o'clock Friday morning and arrived at Place du Canada just as the speakers took to the podium. Two other students, Tom O'Shaughnessy and Kim Harding went in one of the many tour buses which lined the highway and Sarah, Ryan and

Brock Ladurantaye went with their father, Brian.

The 18-year-olds were caught up in the spirit of unity on Thursday afternoon after classes at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. It was a spontaneous decision to go to the rally, but the desire to speak out has been simmering for a long time.

"It's our country," says Ryan Ellis, to which Derek adds "it's the least we could do."

"We want to finish growing up in a unified country," Cara says.

"I'm studying Quebec in history and I feel for them and I can understand how hard it was - or is - for them," says Bobbi, who thinks a Yes vote would be "the saddest day in our history."

For them, going to Montreal was not just a chance to take the day off school. The mood in Montreal was festive, but it wasn't a party. The teenagers feel there will be very serious consequences, both economic and cultural, if Quebec decides to separate.

"I wanted there to be some meaning to it," Daniel says.

Obviously, 150,000 other people felt the same way. All along the route to Montreal, there was a steady line of cars all heading in the same direction.

"Every time you went by another car you'd hang a Canadian flag out and people would cheer," Derek says. There was a steady cacophony of car horns as a way of communicating with one another.

That sense of togetherness was even more in evidence once they reached Montreal. They took a subway into the downtown core and were greeted warmly by Non supporters.

"Everyone was so ecstatic," Derek says, and the group of them were a bit awed by the reception. "People were saying welcome and thanks for coming. They were really glad to see us."

Bobbi led the way, using methods she learned on exchange in Brazil, where such large crowds are more common than they are in Haliburton. Luckily, they stayed together the whole time (except on the way home when the two cars became separated.)

After the speeches, they stayed downtown until about six o'clock, when the Oui forces began to be a stronger presence. They witnessed a few confrontations and said the Oui side seemed to talk more about the past while the Non side concentrated on the future.

On Saturday, after trying to catch up on missed sleep, the teenagers were still caught up in the emotion of the event, perhaps even more so. "Going there made it really personal," says Cara.

But what if Quebec still says Oui? If they were on the negotiating team for Canada, what would be their attitude the day after a yes vote?

"They get nothing," Meaghan says, the others nodding.

"Yes, they do get something," says Daniel. "Their share of the national debt."

Minden Ladurantayes go against family tide to say Non

On Thursday, Brian Ladurantaye phoned his uncle in Montreal and asked him how he was going to vote in the referendum. When the uncle said yes, Brian asked his three children if they wanted to join him on a little trek to Montreal. Sarah, Brock and Ryan all said yes and shortly after school that day, they drove to Ottawa, where their father grew up. The next morning, they were on one of the 130 buses headed for Place du Canada.

"It gives you a warm feeling inside," the Minden OPP officer says of taking part in the rally.

His father's side of the family is French Canadian and he wanted to let his children have a taste of their heritage. As the flags waved and the crowds cheered, they all got caught up in the emotion of being proud to be a Canadian - and hoped that come Monday, the majority of Quebecois will feel the same.

"There was a sense of history being made," says Ladurantaye, who was also reminded that it is a small world after all. In downtown Montreal, they met seven of the local high school students who had also driven down for the occasion.

He won't phone his uncle until after the referendum.

"I'm not going to change his mind, and that wasn't my intention. He's 71, he's not going to change his mind (and vote no)," Ladurantaye says, adding that in all conversations, his uncle makes one thing clear: "he's a sovereigntist, not a separatist" and there will still be Ladurantaye family reunions in Ottawa no matter what happens.

Doing without

In a county known for its residents' ability to "make do," the Haliburton County Association for Community Living has certainly been an equal participant. Administrators have long believed in spending resources on making life better for the people they support, not nice buildings or having the latest in office supplies.

So what happens when you run a lean operation and the government tells you that you have to go on a diet?

In its quest to cut costs, the Ministry of Community and Social Services has been reducing grants to organizations. While some cuts will not be mourned, it doesn't seem prudent to also attack those organizations, such as the local Community Living, which are already efficient and conscientious about the money they spend. Like previous governments before them, the Tories are penalizing those who spend money wisely.

Community Living provides an essential service. People with developmental disabilities are born. They exist. And the community has to respond. In the past, the community responded by placing them in huge, inefficient and impersonal institutions which were very costly to operate. When the government became more sensitive to the needs and aspirations of these people, they shut down most of the institutions and funded community organizations to help the people live and thrive in more "normal" surroundings. However, the cost savings quickly disappeared into the general coffers.

Today, the local association has already cut staff hours and done many tasks voluntarily. Yet they are very nervous about their ability to survive more cuts. As a community, we have to join them in asking what will happen if services have to be discontinued.

If you send the people supported to institutions, they will cost the government even more money. If you say their families should take care of them, what do you do about those whose parents are old or have died? What about the possibilities of abuse? What about the people themselves, who enjoy being part of the community and enjoy being as independent as possible?

No matter how you look at it, Community Living is already providing the best service at the best cost, all while living up to principles society can be proud of. The Haliburton Association for Community Living makes sense, and yet they're being forced to face cutbacks as organizations which aren't as easily defended.

It may be argued that it's too expensive for the government to look at each agency individually. And this isn't an argument against spending cuts. But it's hard to agree with a system that doesn't have the time to find out who's providing a good service and deserves to be supported, and who's not.

On Christmas day, the people who live in the residence will go to various staff members' homes to have a real family Christmas, something everyone is entitled to. In years past, the staff were paid a small honorarium for their efforts. This year, they already know the money won't be available. But still those people will be going to staff members' homes for Christmas. Is that the kind of behaviour this government wants to penalize?

Haliburton remembers

The Echo would like to say "thank you" to Mabel Brannigan, who closes her Canada Remembers series this week. Over the past year and a half, her periodic columns have captured the mood of the years leading up to World War II, the war years and this week, the 50 years since the war's victorious conclusion. She's done a tremendous amount of research to colourfully chronicle the events here in the Highlands, in Canada and abroad. She's helped us to understand why the war was fought and didn't shy away from any of the moral and philosophical dilemmas. More importantly, she's helped readers appreciate the legacy of those men and women who willingly served in the war. Some of them paid for the service with their lives. For better and for worse, it is hard today to imagine such an effort being possible today.

Thank you, Mrs. Brannigan, for helping to ensure that on the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II, Haliburton remembers.

'Non' way to show support

To the Editor:

Fleur de what?

Once again I've tried to promote something that I feel very strongly about and Haliburton County (closed-minded capital of the province) has sent me out of town for yet another purchase.

Since I was born and raised in "La Belle Province" I thought I'd hang a Quebec flag on my front lawn to show my support for a "No" vote. I called all around the county looking for a fleur-de-lis flag and the response I received was ...Fleur de what?

I hope this week we can still call all 10 provinces Canada.

Child care forum loses funding

To the Editor:

The Child Care Forum of Haliburton County received notice on Friday, October 6 that its funding will be cut by the Ministry of Consumer and Social Services on December 31, 1995. As a result, the function of the Forum, a community planning group that promotes and supports quality child care, will be compromised. The Child Care Forum is instrumental in proactive, long-term planning for the child care community and related agencies. The immediate effect of the cancellation of funding will hinder the efforts of this planning body and result in the loss of the services of the Community Child Care Developer (CCCD).

The Developer's main role is to assist community members and child care organizations with the development, implementation and maintenance of quality child care options for families in Haliburton County. Without the provision of these supports, the community will surely feel the effects of the loss of the Forum's services. Stable, affordable, accessible, quality child care is necessary in this time of economic recovery. The Forum's reduced presence will have adverse affects on child care.

Despite this setback, the Forum will remain as a volunteer based planning body and is currently exploring ways to manage the changes. If you are interested in becoming involved in the efforts of the Child Care Forum please contact the Haliburton Social Action Committee at (705) 457-1888.

SIRCH's commitment is praised

To the Editor:

The Haliburton County Committee Against the Abuse of Women (HCCAAB) would like to offer congratulations and best wishes to the staff and volunteers with SIRCH (Supportive Initiatives for the Residents of the County of Haliburton) for their commitment and hard work in developing, building and opening the Women's Emergency House.

HCCAAB is a committee developed in 1985 to prevent the abuse of women in Haliburton County and to ensure services and supports are available for women who are abused. Over the past year we have organized and facilitated the Community Accountability Framework project, a community initiative dealing with the development of a framework that will ensure the coordination of the delivery of services for victims of abuse. We have had over 60 members from this community involved in this project. Over and over we have heard from these members how important it is to have a safe place for women to go when they need to leave abusive situations.

We feel very proud of Haliburton County for the commitment it has demonstrated in dealing with the issue of violence against women and their children. We are glad to be part of this community.

Greetings from Belgium

by BRYN GRAY
Haliburton Rotary Exchange

IT HAS BEEN two months since I left Haliburton for Belgium. A lot has happened since.

My host family is really great. My host father is a veterinarian and my host mother is a nurse but is now a homemaker. I have two host sisters; one is seven and the other is eighteen. The eighteen-year-old left for Haileybury, Ontario on exchange the day after I arrived. I also have two host brothers; one is fifteen and the other is sixteen who play or watch soccer all the time.

A few days after I arrived my host family and I left for France where we stayed at a farm in the mountains for a week. It was so beautiful. Each day we would go for a three-hour walk on the many hiking trails. In the afternoon we would go and visit a nearby interesting village. We stayed in the Alsace region. This was originally part of Germany before World War I but was taken away by the Treaty of Versailles. This region has some of the best white wines in the world. One neat place that I visited was a prison used in the 1500s. My favourite part of the trip was when we visited the trenches used in World War I. We were able to see where the Germans fought, slept, ate and stood watch. The German trenches were in excellent condition whereas the French trenches were basically a pile of stones. It was so amazing being there. It is quite different from studying it in school.

After a great week in France we returned to my home town, Tenneville, which is in the southern part of Belgium. It is 45 minutes by car from Liege. For us, this is nothing but for them it is a long trip. Most of the other exchange students live 20 minutes from Liege. Tenneville is one hour from Brussels, the capital of Belgium. Fifteen minutes from Tenneville is a big town called Bastogne where there is a huge monument and war museum. In World War II Bastogne was attacked and it was defended by the Americans. The monument is in the shape of a beautiful staff listing all the states of the U.S.A.

My school is located in another town about the size of Haliburton called St. Hubert with 1000 students. Classes start daily at 8 a.m. and go until 4 p.m. Classes last 50 minutes and there are eight classes per day.

There are six years in my school and I am in the fifth. I take French, history, math, English, social sciences and computers. I have nine hours of French a week. I also have one hour a week of private lessons. When I don't have classes, I go to the study hall and write letters or work on my correspondence course. But most of the time I talk to everyone in the study hall. At school I have done slide presentations on Canada in three different English classes so far.

The first Sunday after school started was the feast day for St. Hubert (the patron saint of hunting) so there was a big ceremony at the beautiful Basilica there. There was a huge procession into the church. First the brass band came in, followed by the readers. Next the people started bringing in hunting dogs and after that this lady brought in two huge birds perched on her arm. It was so different to see all the animals in church.

A couple weeks after school started, I went to my first Rotary meeting at a very fancy restaurant with waiters in tuxedos. First there was a cocktail hour followed by a four-course meal of really good food. The appetizer was mussels. It was quite different from Haliburton Rotary! There was not a sing-song and they didn't even sing the national anthem at the beginning of the meeting. To be in Rotary here, you have to be very rich.

In Belgium there is an organization called Rotex which was formed by former Belgian Rotary exchange students. They plan various activities almost every weekend for the exchanges in Belgium. Some of the things they have already done are a three-day weekend at a military camp, a 24 km. kayaking trip and a Halloween weekend. Some of the places we are going to go are London, England in two weeks, Antwerpen (capital of the Dutch part of Belgium), and Euro Disney in December. I am also going on the Euro tour which visits cities in France, Italy, Germany, Austria, etc. Also every Wednesday most of the exchange students meet in a cafe in Liege. I can only make it about once a month.

One great thing about Belgium is the trains. To get anywhere I have to take the train. It isn't expensive, unlike most things in Belgium which are really expensive such as $100 for Levis jeans or $40 for a C.D. Postage is also very high.

School is very serious. On weekends most students study. I am going to a Catholic school. When the teacher enters the room we, the students, have to stand to show respect. Some of my classes begin with a prayer.

I am really enjoying myself in Belgium, especially the parties. I am understanding French a lot better and am able to speak it fairly well. It is not that difficult for me to communicate right now. There is still a fair bit that I don't understand when I hear it but it gets better all the time.

I do miss Canada, Haliburton, family and friends. It is really hard at the beginning to be in a foreign country with a different language by yourself. I hope everyone is well and having a great year. I love to hear news from back home!

Love, Bryn

Pic of the Past

In 1995, can you imagine driving into Haliburton and being greeted by two signs advertising cigarettes? Thank goodness some things have changed. June Mason of Stanhope brought in this old postcard of downtown Haliburton looking west. The two first buildings on the left has changed but on the right much has changed. The Shell station was the original site of Curry Motors (with the body shop across the street.) In the background you can see the old Grand Hotel, where Stedmans is today. Our thanks to Mrs. Mason for giving us the photo.

Unusual people, unusual day

THERE ARE A LOT of strange people in the world. By "strange" I mean different from what you might have known in your early years. Those early years were usually filled with family and friends who looked similar to each other and acted in the usual, accepted ways. Then, hopefully your world expanded, letting in others who were different. Perhaps "strange" came to mean anyone who did not meet certain expectations, did not fit the common grooves of life.

Mad Maggie - who lived way off in the bush by herself with a house full of dogs, cats and rabbits - was considered strange by most people. She tended to wander about over deer trails, sometimes venturing closer to civilization, usually in the vicinity of her mail box.

Some cottagers gave Maggie the name after seeing her out to collect her mail one day, some of her menagerie in tow. She had a set of saddle bags across the back of a large German Shepherd and her hefty load of mail was stuffed into these. Maggie herself had a back pack crammed with books and plant roots poking over the edges. She wore green rubber boots and orange leg warmers on a day when the temperature was pushing twenty degrees celsius.

DOWN OUR ROAD

Sharon Lynch

She looked different.

Carl was another one. He had lost his arm in a farm accident years before and some say more than his arm went in the process. Carl had a strange sense of humour. Rather macabre, really. After his accident, he acquired a prosthesis and became quite adept at passing for a two armed person for the longest time. But he grew tired of this appendage that just sat there and did nothing, so he decided to be creative. Sometimes he left off the prosthesis and taped a rubber hand to the inside of his jacket sleeve. He would then catch this hand in grocery store doors or other unlikely places, on occasion allowing it to be pulled off, while other times pretending to be transfixed with pain.

Maggie and Carl were cousins and they both loved Hallowe'en. Hallowe'en was the day they walked up and down Main Street, all day long. Maggie was accompanied by her black lab in front, a black cat trailing behind and one of her black rabbits poking out of the back pack. She wore black rubber boots and whatever else of similar colour and then painted her face green.

Carl walked beside her. He wore his prosthesis with the rubber hand taped beside it. His shirt sleeve had to be slit to accomplish this but he had a special Hallowe'en jacket for just this occasion. He painted all kinds of gory details on both hands and matched his face to Maggie's. They were quite the eye-full.

Between them they carried a sack of candies that would choke a horse. Rumour was that just such a thing had once happened to one of Maggie's horses, but no one could say for sure. The candies were expensive little wrapped sweets from places like Switzerland and Belgium. Maggie ordered them every summer from one of the many catalogues delivered to her mail box.

They gave the candies to any child they came across during their day of walking. Both Carl and Maggie used a liberal definition for the word "child", often throwing it aside altogether. The children came to expect their comical appearance every year and if Hallowe'en fell on a weekend, they and the animals were swamped with candy lovers. However, like their strange and different hearts, Carl and Maggie's sack never seemed to run empty.

Marcel Crete and Ian Moorhouse set their sights on finishing well in the 100th Boston Marathon

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Imagine the route from Eagle Lake to West Guilford to the Stanhope Airport and back to West Guilford along the Barry Line, ending up at the Log Cabin Restaurant where freshly baked Chelsea buns await you.

Now imagine that you're running that route at least once a week, not for wealth, not for glory, but just for the opportunity to push your body to its limits at one of the most prestigious marathons in the world.

And for the guilt-free pleasure of biting into that Chelsea bun, of course.

As Marcel Crete and Ian Moorhouse run along this route in the months to come, their minds won't really be concentrating on the beauty of the Highlands. Instead, they'll push themselves to take that next step by remembering that on April 16, their route will be along the streets of Boston as tens of thousands of people cheer them on.

Both local runners have earned the privilege of taking part in the 100th anniversary of the Boston Marathon.

"In the running community, it's the equivalent of the Super Bowl and the World Series rolled into one," says Moorhouse, who works at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Haliburton.

For Moorhouse, this will be his first Boston Marathon as a participant. He's competed in many marathons along the West Coast of Canada and the United States, but never in Boston. He qualified by running a marathon in Portland, Oregon, in less than three hours and 10 minutes, which was the maximum time allowed in the age 30 to 35 category.

Crete was in the 1985 Boston Marathon and three years ago, thought he'd never run a marathon again. As he got older, he preferred the shorter runs when his body didn't take as long to recuperate. Then Moorhouse moved to Haliburton and convinced him to train together.

Over the summer, the two men trained for the run along the West Guilford route. Crete, who is well known in Haliburton for his love of running, qualified in the master's category two weeks ago at the Canadian International Marathon in Toronto. He had to run the course in less than three and a half hours.

The Boston Marathon is 26 miles, 385 yards. (Crete says those last 385 yards are relatively easy because of a downward slope.) Most years, there are between six and eight thousand runners who take part. Next year, the 100th anniversary is expected to attract 26,000 runners, which is why it was necessary to impose a qualifying time. (Moorhouse has raced with 60,000 other runners before.)

Ostensibly, all runners start at the same time but with so many of them, Crete expects it will be five minutes after the starting gun fires that he'll actually be able to start running. In 1985, there wasn't a single point along the route where there wasn't someone cheering on the runners. On April 16, the crowd is likely to swell in numbers as well.

Both men will have their own cheering section. Leona Crete and Heather Moorhouse are vital to their husbands' efforts and success. They provide encouragement and support, and above all, they don't complain when their husbands take off for a two-hour run.

Training in Haliburton will be hard. Crete lives on Soyers

THEY CALL IT FUN: Running more than 26 miles isn't most people's idea of a good time, but Ian Moorhouse, left, and Marcel Crete thrive on long hours of pounding the pavement en route to Boston.

Lake, where there are no streetlights or sidewalks. It gets dark early in the winter and there are no indoor facilities in the county. Instead, he and Moorhouse will concentrate on cross country skiing as a way of maintaining cardio-vascular strength and muscle toning. In February, they'll have to start training more intensively. They are also thinking of ways they could raise money for the hospital projects. Perhaps they could have a contest when people try to guess their times. Community involvement would be welcomed and appreciated.

It's hard for them to describe what compels them to want to run 26 miles just for the pleasure of saying they did it.

First of all, you have to enjoy running, they say, and for some, it can become addictive. But it's more for personal satisfaction and chasing away any of the stresses of life.

"I've had some runs in Glebe Park that are just amazing - the hills, the forest," says Moorhouse. "You feel wonderful. Workday stress is gone and you're feeling revitalized."

"(With marathons), it's really nice to set a goal that's four or six or eight weeks away and work towards it. You lay out a groundwork and when you achieve that goal there's nothing like it. After some races I've been higher than a kite for two days. There's nothing else that has the same level of gratification."

Novice Bs win four straight

Coaches' emphasis on team pays off with undefeated season start

by GINNY HEMING

The Haliburton Novice B Huskies remain unbeaten since the league opener Oct. 21st. Rob Abbs, who heads up the coaching, is assisted by Glen Fick. These two have teamed up to coach championship teams in the past, and this year seems to be no exception. They have been concentrating on team play, with emphasis on breakouts and passing.

In the past week, Haliburton scored a total of 21 goals, with 81 shots on net, to skate away undefeated. The red lights were flashing so much, the Huskies almost had to dig out their sunglasses.

The first game against Minden on Oct. 25 started slowly. However, the Huskies dominated the play with lightning speed, good positional play and perfect passes, keeping Minden pinned in their own end most of the game. At game's end, Haliburton had out shot their opponents 40-1, with the final score Haliburton 10, Minden 0. Adam Trueman led the charged with four goals and two assists, followed by Nick Judge with three goals, two assists, Shawn Heming with two goals, three assists and Kyle Espie with one goal, two assists. Calvin Rosswel had three assists, while Jonathon Sharpley and Nick Chumbley had two assists each. Haliburton shut down any offensive attempts by Minden with numerous dazzling defensive plays by Josh Fick, Nick Chumbley, Justin Abbs and Travis Burke. The only person able to slow the Huskie down Minden's goalie, who came up with some amazing saves. Husky goalie Jeff McKenna tried to stay focused as he faced only one shot, and recorded his first shutout of the season.

On Oct. 28 Haliburton travelled to Minden for a rematch. Minden scored first and it took five minutes before Calvin Rosswel could even it up, scoring a minute later assisted by Josh Fick and Adam Trueman. In the second period, Josh Fick raced with an opponent for a breakaway, scoring unassisted with a wrist shot high on the stick side. Then Nick Judge scored, assisted by Travis Burke. Minden could not clear the puck from its zone so the scoring frenzy continued as Trueman scored two more goals within 30 seconds. Fick and Rosswel picked up assists. Minden scored twice but it wasn't enough. Final score Haliburton 6, Minden 3. This was the second penalty free game of the year. Way to go Huskies!

The game in Manvers on Oct. 29 proved to be the most challenging for the Huskies, who had only eight players, and the most exciting for spectators. After several near misses and tense moments for both teams, Judge passed to Trueman who broke into the clear and deked the goalie. Manvers came flying back in the second period to score on two breakaways but that would be the end of their scoring as Haliburton scored four unanswered goals in the last five minutes of the game. Nick Judge started the rush flanked by Heming and Kyle Espie. Then Espie scored a power play goal assisted by Heming. Less than a minute later Heming scored assisted by Espie and Judge. This "tasmanian trio" was a blur in Manvers' eyes. With one minute left, Manvers pulled their goal but Haliburton responded with a flourish. Trueman scrapped in the corner for the puck and had a clear shot at net but chose to slide the puck to Jonathon Sharpley, who raised toward the crease and banged it in with 21 seconds left in the game. It was another fine example of Huskies teamwork. The game ended 5-2 for Haliburton. Jeff McKenna clearly made the difference this game as he made two awesome diving plays and pounced on a few loose pucks to keep Manvers at bay.

The Huskies will be on the road for their next game, returning to home ice on Nov. 8 at 6 p.m.

ONE ON ONE: Haliburton's Second Entry Atom goaltender let in only one goal in a Husky win over the Minden A team Saturday.

No. 2 Atoms beat Minden

by DAVE BROWN

The Second Entry Atoms are getting their feet wet while finding their niche in the minor hockey circuit. In order to get a feel for their capabilities, and to ensure a competitive season, the team is challenging a wide variety of competition.

Saturday was no different as the team took on the Minden A team. The back to basics practices are paying off. This game brought back memories of some exciting playoff games the team's experienced over the years.

For 20 minutes, the play was wide open and looking like a goaltenders' duel until Haliburton finally scored with 2:59 left in the second period.

The goal stood up for almost 13 minutes, until an ill-timed penalty gave the Minden team a man advantage and a hard-earned goal. With only five minutes left in the game, the score was tied at one apiece.

The Minden goal must've fired up the Huskies, as they responded in kind 40 seconds later with what proved to be the winner. A little icing on the cake was added with 1:29 left, giving Haliburton a 3-1 win.

Once again the score sheet had both the offensive and defensive lines contributing to the win. A special mention must be made to the Minden and Haliburton net-minders who put on an impressive exhibition of stand-up goal tending.

The Huskies have shown excellent two-way hockey allowing only one goal per game while scoring four. Back to basics.

PeeWee Rockets cook Cougars

by SUE CLARKSON

Last Monday the PeeWees blasted through three periods of play against Bobcaygeon. This was a much stronger team than the Rockets' last competition and our goalie, Joe Carey, was much busier between the pipes and did a super job.

The Rockets dominated the game from the outset. They worked well as team both on forward and defence. Final score — Wilberforce, 9, Bobcaygeon, 4. The finally tally was: Corby Semple, four goals and two assists (second hat trick in as many games); Chris Alden, four goals, one assist (second hat trick in a row); Kenny Mott, four assists; David Arsenaault, one of each; Sean Critch, two assists; and Ian Brown and Ira Arsenaault, one assist each. No points for Adam Clarkson this time, but his presence on the ice was felt literally by a number of Cougars. Well done!

The Atom team's first game of the season last Friday was also against the Cougars. The cougars scored two quick ones before the end of the first. The Rockets decided to get their blades in gear and came back in the second. Matthew Reil scored the first goal with assists going to Mitchell Clarkson and Brandon Logan, followed closely by Mitchell Clarkson, assisted by Brandon Logan and Matthew R. to tie the game.

Despite a couple good chances for the Rockets in the third, the score tied. Aside from those mentioned above, the team consists of Ben DeCarlo, Christopher Peacock, Billy Hunter, Tom Bates, Paul Hutchinson, Matthew Manary, Matthew Shaw, Tim Covert and Doug Carey. Congratulations, boys.

The Novice team travelled to Fenelon for its first game of the Season Saturday morning. The Rockets were in full command from start to finish. Goalie Chris Johnston only saw four shots the whole game.

The score was 3-0 for the Rockets at the end of the first and, except for one goal against to foil Chris's shutout, the Rockets continued to net the puck for a 9-1 win.

Each player took a turn at defence and all did a great job. Gavin Swan and Aaron Donaldson netted two goals and two assists, Josh MacKay earned a goal and an assist, Kevin Bowman, Kanai Quibell, Shawn Crowder and Tim Pettit each worked hard for a goal and Andy Sayers got an assist. The two Matts, Tripp and Davidson, contributed a lot to this game, as well. A real team effort!

The Atom team had an early Saturday afternoon game against the Mariposa Lightning. Mitchell Clarkson was able to get on the scoreboard first with the assist going to Matt Shaw - his first ever. The second goal of the game was netted by Matthew Reil with the assist going to Mitchell soon followed with a goal scored by Ben DeCarlo from Matthew Manary and Doug Carey, who also got his first assist ever. In the second,

Brandon Logan scored the fourth goal thanks to a nice corner pass from Mitchell Clarkson. The Mariposa goalie played excellently and was responsible for keeping the score as close as it was. The Rockets killed off three consecutive penalties playing two men short for three minutes thanks to good defensive play by Tom Bates and Paul Hutchinson. Billy Hunter preserved the shutout with a great bare-handed save in the crease near the end of the game. Rockets outshot the Lightning 20 - 6 in this 4 - 0 win for the Rockets. Great team play boys!

The PeeWees travelled to Beaverton to meet the Blades for their first match-up. The Rockets must have thought this would be an easy game when they saw the Blades had the same nine players they did but were they ever in for a rude awakening. The Rockets scored the first goal at 4:40 of the first period but Bobcaygeon tied it up shortly after and continued to score. Soon they were ahead 4 - 1. By the end of the second the score had crept up to 6 - 4 for the Blades but they fell to pieces in the third, allowing six unanswered goals until the final two minutes of the period. Final score, Rockets 10, Beaverton 7. Chris Alden scored two and assisted on one, Adam Clarkson and Sean Critch netted one and assisted on two each, Ken Mott and Corby Semple each scored a pair, Ira Arsenaault had a goal and an assist, and Ian Brown earned a goal.

For the parents and kids of WMH: The executive decided last year that the points recorded by the referee on the game sheet are the ones we will go by for this article. Sometimes it isn't correct, especially for the defencemen, but it seems to equal out by the end of the year.

Come out next Saturday and Sunday to the Monmouth Arena to have some fun cheering on the home team. The Tykes play at 12:15 p.m., then the Atoms at 2:15 followed right after by the PeeWees. On Sunday, the Tykes play at 2:30 followed by the Novice team. Entry is $3.

Novice A Huskies win, lose, draw

by Walter Tose

The OMHA Novice A Huskies travelled to Cobourg on Saturday, Oct. 28th to play three exhibition games. All turned out to be excellent matches. The first game was very exciting as the Huskies kept pace with a strong skating team from Port Perry and came up with a 4-4 tie.

In the second game, the Huskies faced a well-disciplined and sizeable team, the Oshawa Red Wings. The boys from Haliburton seemed to come out a bit flat in the first period, but picked up the pace in the second and third periods and played very well, never giving up to the end. A couple of missed chances by the Huskies proved to be the difference and they ended up losing 4-3, their first defeat of the season.

In their third match of the day, the Huskies faced the Oshawa Canadiens. How would they react to their loss in game 2? Apparently the Huskies had learned their lesson. After an early goal by the Canadiens, the Huskies took charge, picked up their game, and led all the way to a 4-3 win.

On Sunday, Oct. 29th, the Novice As played at home against Fenelon Falls. Once again, the Huskies came out a little flat. They took some costly penalties early in the game and as a result had a difficult time getting their passing game going. In addition, Lady Luck seemed to be on Fenelon's side when the Husky forwards did get some chances. To their credit the Huskies kept pressing and finally in the third period got the spark they needed. They ignited for four goals and dominated play in the third period to earn a 4-2 win.

Once again the defensive squad of Andy Dawson, Daniel Jung, Brandon Bowman, Adam Hutson and goaltender, Jeremy Moynes, played very well. Perhaps the biggest improvement this weekend was the passing of the Husky forwards, especially the centres, Josh Brown and Ross Gerry. If these two continue to improve their ability to set up their team mates as they showed they can this past weekend, this team will be very tough to beat. Top marks, as well, to the other forwards, Terry Bannon, Adrian Winn, Matthew Roberts and Jesse Johnson for their hustle and tenacity.

OMHA Bantams unbeaten in 7

After three games in the past week the Haliburton OMHA Bantam Huskies are still unbeaten this season. Wins over Woodville and Bracebridge and a tie with Fenelon Falls pushed the Bantams record to 4 wins and 3 ties.

On October 26 in Woodville the Huskies should have won easily. Woodville, however, made it interesting. Haliburton jumped to a two-goal lead early in the first period. First Steve St. Cyr picked up a zone clearing pass from defenceman Devon Dart and on a break away did what he does so well, scored. Then defenceman Shane Parks carried the puck deep into Woodville territory and with a perfect pass set up Mike Morissette. On a power play Woodville scored before the first period ended. In the second period an out-manned Woodville squad stuck with the Huskies allowing only one goal. Defenceman Matt Reid drifted into the slot and completed a smooth passing play from St. Cyr and Blayne Saunders. In the third period Woodville kept pressing and scored early. Big Al Pugh restored the Huskies' two-goal lead with assists from Jason Henry and Morissette. Goal-a-game man Chris Moynes put the Huskies ahead by 3 on a set-up by Greg Forgrave. Woodville scored 20 seconds later but Huskie goalie Greg Schell shut the door for a Haliburton 5 to 3 victory.

In Haliburton on October 28 the Huskies hosted an exhibition game with the Bracebridge Bears. The first two periods were a familiar story. Stevie "Wonder" St. Cyr did the scoring for Haliburton with a natural hat-trick and goalie Greg Schell held the Huskies in the game with some great saves. St. Cyr staked Haliburton to two-goal lead in the first period, with Henry drawing an assist on the second goal, before Bracebridge scored on a power play late in the period. Mid-way through the second period Bracebridge made the most of a 5 minute penalty to the Huskies scoring three times. St. Cyr with his third goal of the game kept the Huskies within reach. It was late in the third period before Huskie marksman Darol Sisson tied the game up on an individual rush. Less than a minute later Moynes netted the winner on another spectacular individual rush. Some of the most memorable moments of the game were provided by Matt "Crusher" Billings as he checked a number of Bears to the ice.

It was the third match of the season between the Huskies and the Flyers in Fenelon Falls on Sunday, October 29. These teams are really evenly matched and they really don't like each other. The first period was rugged. St. Cyr gave Haliburton the lead. In the second period tempers flared and the penalty count mounted. Schell, in the Haliburton crease, withheld the Flyers. In the third period the penalties were many. Fenelon pressure resulted in two goals. As time wound down the Flyers made a big mistake. In trying to preserve the win they gave St. Cyr skating room. His rush to the net resulted in a goal mouth scramble from which Henry took the puck, waited and fired it high over the goalie for the tie with 26 seconds remaining in the game. This game featured the rugged play of power forward Matt Burk and the steady defensive work of defenceman Andrew Burtch.

OMHA PeeWees drop Cougars

Another season has begun for our boys. Back for their second year of PeeWee A action are Nick Cochrane (lw), Cole Glendinning (d), Jamie Johnston (d), Bobby Hebert (lw), Danny Koz (d), and our solid goaltending combination of Adam Wilson and Brian Mulholland.

First year starters making up the rest of the squad, getting used to the heavy hitting of PeeWee hockey and doing a fine job of it, are: Ryan Wood (ctr), Scot Curry (rw), Shane Campbell (lw), Logan Roberts (d), Ryan Kirkpatrick (rw), Jason Woodcox (lw), Adam Henry (rw), and Jamie Luck (ctr).

Going into their fourth week of the season, with the coaching staff of Floyd Henry and Brian Mulholland and behind them the boys have compiled an impressive record of three wins, one tie and one loss.

Hoping to increase their win total to four, the Huskies tangled with the Bobcaygeon team last Tuesday night.

Not off to a good start, the Huskies were scored on first at 7:39 of the first period.

Scot Curry, assisted by Ryan Wood, evened the game up with 50 seconds left in the first.

In the second both teams scored twice. Goal scorers for the Huskies were Jamie Luck, assisted by Jason Woodcox and Adam Henry and scorer Logan Roberts, assisted by Scot Curry and Bobby Hebert. With the game tied at 3, the third period was action-packed. Big saves from netminder Adam Wilson kept the Huskies in it until Ryan Kirkpatrick, assisted by Shane Campbell, bulged the twine in the Bobcaygeon net. Final score, Huskies 4, Bobcaygeon 3.

Home games for the PeeWee As will be on Tuesday nights at 7:00.

Novice Cs grab two

by DAN MacMILLAN

The past weekend was busy for the Huskie Novice Cs. On Friday they travelled to Manvers and soon found themselves down 2 to 0 at the end of the first. Adam Sisson got Haliburton rolling assisted by Clayton Hodgson. Then Adam returned the favour when he set up Clayton to tie the game. In the third Haliburton took the lead when Jeff Burk fed the puck to Adam. Clayton scored an unassisted insurance goal to give the Huskies a 4-2 win. Cody Hodgson was brought up from the Tykes for this game and played with all his heart.

It was a quick trip home for Saturday morning's game against Mariposa. Point scorers were Adam Sisson with three goals, one assist; Dylan Metcalfe and Connor MacMillan with two goals, one assist; Clayton Hodgson with one goal and three assists; Jade MacInnes with three assists; and Jeff Griffin, Ryan Bottum and Scott Lewis with one assist each. The final score was 8-3 for the Huskies. Josh Mayhew was super in goal for both games, which were huge team efforts and get this season off to a great start.

RUNNING HISTORY: The first cross-country team to ever represent HHSS at the all-Ontario finals includes (from foreground): Stephanie Ratz, Amy Pergolas, Reagan Brown and Kate Campbell. The girls will race on Nov. 4 in London.

Cross-country runners heading to OFSSA

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

For the first time in the school's history, a cross country running team from the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School have reached the all-Ontario finals.

On November 4, Stephanie Ratz, Kate Campbell, Reagan Brown and Amy Pergolas will be competing at the OFSSA championship races in London.

The midget team earned the berth at the highest level of competition at the COSSA finals in Brighton last Wednesday. A boys team also competed but did not qualify.

For the girls, winning was a true team effort. There were 55 girls in their class. Stephanie came in third and while Kate, Reagan and Amy were 16th, 24th and 25th respectively, their placings were a vital component in giving the team enough overall points to qualify.

"It's terrific," says Paul Morissette, who coaches the team along with Wayne Cooper. "They work hard and work together.... What they also understand is their performance counts. Whether they were first or 20th, it benefits the others."

The girls, who are all in Grade 9, admire Stephanie's success. "She has so much energy - she never quits," says Amy. Stephanie just smiles and says she likes cross country because "I know I can do it and get a good placing. It tires me out but I like the competition."

They also know that if it weren't for each other, they'd probably not have the dedication and commitment to train every day. They like being in shape, but the companionship is what keeps them going.

In cross country, the runs are between 2.5 and 3.5 kilometres. What makes them challenging are the hills. Here in Haliburton, the girls train by running up to Skyline Park.

Atom Cs blast Fenelon 2-1

On Oct. 23, Fenelon Falls didn't know what hit them when the Haliburton Atom Cs arrived. The Huskies' spirits were still high from he big win against Mariposa on Saturday. Haliburton dominated the play.

The first goal came from Jason Chambers in the second with a fast, hard shot and Nick Judge's smooth passing. Then Joel Johnson took his dad's advice (coach Pete) and outmaneuvered Fenelon's defence, making it two for the Huskies. It looked like another shutout for Alex Frybort until the third period when Fenelon got a lucky one. Congratulations Huskies for fine workmanship and exciting entertainment for the fans.

In the game against Bobcaygeon, it would have been a blowout if it weren't for Frybort stopping all but three of Bobcaygeon's shots on net. Final score Bobcaygeon 3, Haliburton 0.

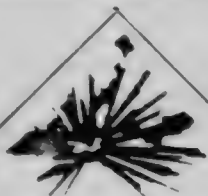

Congratulations to Haliburton's Kyle Boughner, Jason Chambers, Adam Frybort and Joel Johnson who were elected by a player vote to be assistant captains. No "C" will be worn, but all "A"s.

50 years

In the five decades after the war, Canada has seen many changes – changes made possible by the Allies' victory and the sacrifices of the men and women who joined the cause

With the retirement of the flags on November 11, 1995, the Canada Remembers program of the Royal Canadian Legion will officially end. Chairman David Stirrett and his committee are to be commended for the fine variety of programs which were initiated at Branch 129. This is the final submission for the committee.

by MABEL BRANNIGAN

EVEN WITHOUT a war, 1939 was an eventful year. Two-thirds of Canada's population lived below the poverty line. Yet, many young people found it possible to get to Toronto to see the award winning movie "Gone With The Wind". That year we said "Goodbye" to Mr. Chips, and travelled with Judy Garland "Over the Rainbow". We danced to "Deep Purple", "San Antonio Rose", and among others, Gene Autry's "South of the Border". America's sweetheart, Kate Smith, belted out "God Bless America" to the whole world. Big names in sports were Joe Dimaggio, the Yankee Clipper, and Ted Williams, the Splendid Splinter.

Al Capone was released from prison, and Franco became Spain's new dictator.

At the end of World War II, Canada was transformed from a struggling colony into an independent nation, no longer to be ignored. Men and women exchanged uniforms for a very changed Canada, and for a country which would change just as dramatically in the next decade.

Although Canada was built on the principle of immigration, the arrival of 48,000 war brides and 22,000 children was a strange sight, indeed. While Canada was building faster than either the U.S. or Britain, there was a serious housing shortage. Thousands of newly-married couples got down to the business of starting the baby boom. Fifty years ago, and we hadn't heard of credit cards, instant coffee, ball point pens, pantyhose, fast foods, and countless other goodies considered normal today.

Fifty years have passed quickly, and it is possible only to reflect on a few highlights. After the war, Crown Princess Juliana and her daughter Margriet who was born in Ottawa, went home to lead Holland through post war problems.

The United Nations and Human Rights legislation emerged as a result of World War II. To safeguard medical atrocities as those performed during the war, the Nuremberg Code was adopted in 1946. In this decade also, King George VI died, and Queen Elizabeth II became Queen of the Commonwealth. Newfoundland joined Confederation in 1949.

Summing up his platform "Unity in Equality", Louise Saint-Laurent became Canada's new post-war Prime Minister on November 15, 1948. A new vision of Canada's involvement in world affairs inspired him to be among the architects of the North American Treaty Organization, better known as NATO.

Another young man in Ottawa who had distinguished himself as a debater and orator in the House of Commons, John Diefenbaker, attended the United Nations organization meeting in San Francisco in 1945. He took office as Prime Minister on June 21, 1957, and on his re-election in 1958, he received the largest majority ever recorded to a federal party. He is best remembered for a Canadian Bill of Rights emphasizing individual freedoms, as well as the "Northern Vision".

Also, on the scene at the time was another brilliant politician, Lester B. Pearson. He handled negotiations which led to the formation of NATO in 1949. In recognition of his achievements for peace, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957. Internationally, Canada's reputation was that of a peaceful nation. She had the know-how to build the atom bomb, but chose to dedicate nuclear knowledge to peaceful purposes. Mr. Pearson became Canada's Prime Minister on April 22, 1963. Canada's first flag raising was celebrated in 1965.

By the Silver Anniversary of the end of World War II, Canadians saw the War Measures Act implemented by the Trudeau government, in an attempt to capture Quebec terrorists who had kidnapped a British diplomat, as well as a Quebec cabinet minister. By 1975, it was necessary to adopt wage and price controls to curb inflation.

Twenty-five years after the war brought many changes. We had watched a man walk on the moon and heard him describe through song and music.

In these articles, we have tried to express feelings of the horrors of war - especially a war which killed 50 million of the world's people, and left countless others wounded in body and mind. Canada now faces a new and different war - a moral war of hate, greed, discrimination, exploitation and other human life issues. They are many, varied and extremely complex without black and white answers. Like Hitler's philosophy, these issues breed and thrive on indifference. As Canadian citizens, we are expected to meet the challenge as we did 56 years ago. We are called upon to understand, to make reasonable decisions, and to defend the chosen position on each ethical issue.

Recently, we are faced with diseases unheard of in the past. Decreasing Medicare funds have to be allocated fairly. There is the ethical dilemma of caring for the elderly with numbers in this group growing rapidly, and the family as caregivers, diminishing. Abuse of the elderly is no longer rare and the abuser is often a family member.

While Canada has had a strong tendency to morally condemn the practice of euthanasia in any form, other countries have adopted euthanasia under certain circumstances. Regularly we hear of a Canadian challenging the Criminal Code or Supreme Court on this issue.

Further, there is the moral challenge of controlling human reproduction, and the continual debate on abortion.

These are only a few of the ethical issues which will follow us into the 21st century as the new war. Those who gave their lives in World War II provided the opportunity for all Canadians to work together for a better country. The road ahead will be a difficult one, but it will not be impossible if we remember moral authority is based not only on technical knowledge and expertise, but also on a knowledge of what is good and right.

At the Haliburton cenotaph on November 11, local veterans killed in all Canadian wars will be remembered.

For 50th Anniversary purposes, the names of those who died from Haliburton County in World War II are listed below: Jack Anderson, Lyle Boice, Leslie Burk, Arthur Carnochan, Elmer Covert, Vern Cowan, Ross Davidson, Richard Dawson, Burt Fielding, Jordan Gainer, Mervyn Harrison, Lyle Horsley, Elizie Henderson, Irwin Howe, Russell LaRue, Max McCracken, James Nicholls, Donald Pasquino, James Redner, George Swanton, Walter Winn, James Wright.

"Their names liveth forevermore."

Chamber sales pitch hits target

More and more people are asking for information about the Highlands

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at October 18's annual general meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce at the Red Umbrella Inn.

The number of tourists visiting the Highlands is going up, and it's no fluke, says the Chamber's marketing committee chairman.

Bryan Brown told the audience of about 50 at the Red Umbrella Inn the Chamber's marketing efforts are paying off with more visitors, more inquiries and more room nights booked at local lodges, resorts and hotels.

And the tourists turning up in the Highlands are all coming directly from the markets the Chamber has targeted in a variety of marketing campaigns, including television, radio and print advertising, he maintained.

"This is not by chance," he said. "It's planned and it's working."

The success of several high profile sporting events over the past year has exposed millions of television viewers to the Highlands' natural attractions, said Brown.

The Bass'n'tario fishing tournament filmed in 1994 but shown on TV in this year reached an audience of about 1.5 millions views, while another show aired on the popular Fishing Canada series was seen by about 500,000.

Qualifying races for the Canadian national white water kayaking team held at Minden's White Water Park were shown on TSN three times reaching more than 2.5 million viewers.

Some Chamber members also drew attention to the region through advertisements on The FAN's popular Prime Time Sports radio program, said Brown.

Ads placed in a U.S. magazine, the Michigan Snowmobile, resulted in 700 room nights booked at local lodges and resorts.

Unfortunately, because there was so little snow last winter, most cancelled their bookings, said Brown.

However, already the Chamber has fielded numerous calls resulting from the same ads for the coming winter, he said.

Prior to the Minden Sled Dog Derby's cancellation last winter, also due to poor weather conditions, Chamber staff were fielding up to 200 inquiries a day from interested tourists, said Brown.

This winter they have high hopes for a successful event that will bring thousands to the county and will show Haliburton to millions more on television.

The Chamber has solid proof its Destinations guide is working, said Brown.

There have been about 6,500 inquiries logged on its 1-800 hotline, primarily from the Toronto area.

Among the top topics most callers are interested in are: accommodations, fishing, fall colours, snowmobiling and hiking opportunities.

President's message

Former Chamber president Brian Dean, who recently stepped down to become its manager, told audience members the Chamber will have to become heavily involved "fundraising-type programs" in the near future.

"The money is not around from any level of government anymore," he said. "If it's going to be around, it's going to be out of our own pockets."

The past year has as "a growing year" for the Chamber with a number of changeovers and numerous successful initiatives started.

Among them, Dean cited the recently completed Trails and Tours masterplan as a major accomplishment for the county.

"We're going to end up with the finest trail and tour system in Ontario," he predicted.

Over the course of the year, the Chamber has taken on a much more active role lobbying on behalf of the county's businesses, he said, pointing to its fight to have the Managed Forest Tax Rebate reinstated.

As well, he said, the Chamber has become more involved in seeking venture capital for local businesses.

Dean invited business operators in need of capital to approach the Chambers with their proposals.

In the red

Hugh Nichol, an accountant with Dawson Gray, presented an audit of the Chamber's books, showing it lost $21,504 for the year ending March 31, 1995.

The loss brings the Chamber's previous membership surplus of $35,151 down to $13,647.

"The Chamber is a non-profit organization. It's not supposed to make money. But you will have a limit in regard to how much you can spend next year," Nichol said, referring to the loss.

According to the report, the Chamber's Destination Guide, which was put together at a cost of $43,734, brought in only $23,973 in revenue.

On a positive note, the 1994 Dave Andreychuck Golf Tournament raised $12,740 for the county's hospital trust fund.

Honoured

Two long-time Chamber members who have decided they no longer have time sit on the executive were recognized for their many years of service. Rhonda Elstone and Dennis Casey were presented gifts in honour of all the time and commitment they have dedicated to the Chamber.

In the shadow of Everest: land of the Sherpas

On Monday, famed mountaineer Sir Edmund Hillary, the first man to climb earth's highest mountain, will lecture in Minden on his work with Nepal's Sherpa people. In honour of his visit, we offer our readers a glimpse of the high Himalayas. The photos were taken in January, 1983, by Echo publisher Len Pizzey

Trekking to Mount Everest:

Since Edmund Hillary and Sherpa Tenzing Norgay first reached the 29,028 foot summit of Mount Everest on the British-led expedition of 1953, thousands of people have followed in the mountaineers footsteps, trekking over mountain passes and through deep river valleys to reach the Sol Khumbu, the valley of the Sherpa people. The fittest trekkers can reach the base of Everest, one of earth's most awe-inspiring places.

Top left: yak and porters' baskets in a Khumbu village. People and goods travel on such trails throughout Nepal.

It's a hard life in the valley of earth's highest mountain

High in the Khumbu valley, in the shadow of some of earth's highest mountains, with a view of Mount Everest, is Teng Boche, the region's largest Bhuddist monastery. Here monks live an austere, ascetic life, spending long hour each day chanting prayers.

The Khumbu Valley above Namche Bazaar, the largest Sherpa village. At centre, Everest massif, with Everest shrouded in cloud behind the wall of Lhotse and Nuptse. At right, the sheer peak of Ama Dablam. In the saddle below it is Teng Boche monastery.

Trekking and mountaineering are major sources of income for Nepal's Sherpa people, but life affords few luxuries in this high, rugged land. Houses are unheated, sanitation facilities are rudimentary and in most homes cooking is done over an open hearth. As a result, respiratory problems are common.

In the decades since reaching Mount Everest's summit, Sir Edmund Hillary has devoted himself to helping the Sherpa people. His Foundation, which will receive the proceeds of next Monday night's lecture, builds health clinics and schools, buys medical supplies and trains staff, and contributes to much-needed reforestation projects.

Above, trekkers' tents on the grounds of a school built with the help of the Hillary Foundation. Schools like this, unheated, and with few desks or books, are common throughout Nepal.

West Guilford: Students lauded

by ELEANOR COOPER

Parents and friends of the local students who won honours and awards this year can once again be duly proud of the achievement recognized on October 21 at the High School. These students are: Jon Hebert, son of Paul and Linda Hebert; Jacoba Lilius, daughter of Claire and Eric Lilius; Jamie Thivierge, son of Gerald and Susan Thivierge; Marcus Letourneau, son of Shirley and Reg Letourneau; Graeme and Nicholas Fawcett, sons of Barb and Wayne Fawcett; Niki Fluegel, daughter of Reiner and Jackie Fluegel; Sharon Lancia, daughter of Vince and Cathy Lancia; Kim Aldrich, daughter of Bev Aldrich; Tammy Moore, daughter of Neil and Betty Moore; Sarah Cowling, daughter of Jim and Shirley Cowling; and Craig Barry, son of Grenville and Brenda Barry. Marcus, Sarah, Craig and Tammy were also Ontario Scholars. Well done!

Nov. 2, 7:30 p.m. is the second night for Ladies in Fellowship Together at the W.G. Baptist Church. Speaker is Sheila Popple. All ladies welcome to come.

Eighty people were present at the Gideon annual fall banquet. Brian Henderson with Richard Fielding and ladies of the Baptist Church here prepared the delicious meal. Clarence Nichel emceed the event. His wife, Kay, gave a presentation of how brochures, cards, New Testaments were distributed, the latter being presented as gifts to graduating RNA's. William Cosgove, zone leader responsible for five camps (areas) and his wife Elaine, were also present. Michael Konoval and his wife Linda of Parry Sound area (Snug Harbour on Georgian Bay, to be exact), were special guests, Michael being the speaker of the evening. His knowledge of the use and effect of bibles in hotels, prisons and schools is extensive and served to let the audience know how money spent for bibles is used.

On September 30, Zoie Rolfe and Jason Goodall, son of Leanne and Ken Goodall, were married in St. Anthony's Church and their reception held at PineStone Inn. Best wishes from the community.

Also on Sept. 30, 1995 Melanie (daughter of Emile and Jane Duchene), married Brent Flood, son of Peter and Robin Flood. The wedding took place at St. George's, Haliburton with reception at the Legion later.

Debbie, daughter of Merrill and Merrie Barry, and Lance, son of Mike and Nancy Stinson, were married in Haliburton United Church with reception afterwards at the Legion on September 23. Friends from their respective baseball leagues as well as Stinson, Easton, Barry and Reynolds families swelled the crowd that brought best wishes to the happy pair.

CNR building fund-raisers set

The A.W.M. (Apostolic Women's Missions) met for their Oasis meeting on October 16 at the church. President Laurie Campbell welcomed all the ladies and explained that Oasis means a resting place in the desert. The desert is a dry place, and Laurie said she hoped the ladies would enjoy fun, fellowship and food and leave the meeting feeling refreshed.

The old Canadian National Railway Station has been gently lifted from its old home, behind Tri-County lumber, and is now resting on the east side of the hill just above the ball diamond overlooking busy Highway 35. Fund-raising is underway to get the building in shape.

Street, are having a Christmas extravaganza to raise funds for the station project. There is a tour of their home built in 1858, all done up for Christmas. The cost is one dollar and includes refreshments. The railway station restoration committee will also be there selling their T-shirts.

Norman Harris is coming along well following his surgery in the Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Shirley Fountain is home after a long stay in Ross Memorial Hospital.

She went to hospital on July 3.

Jean Montgomery was given a fond goodbye at a party by her many friends at the Seniors New Horizons meeting. A large cake, decorated like a quilt was so pretty and tasty. The choir gave Jean a plaque and the crafter gang gave her a floral arrangement. Jean is going to live at Stayner, where her daughter lives.

Monte Carlo Night ropes 'em in Partying posse gets in the mood for gambling fun at the O.K. Corral

Who would ever guess what a great evening the Monte Carlo Night at the O.K. Corral would turn out to be. Everyone came in a party mood, and what a party it was. The gambling tables were packed all night. Some of us tried gambling for the first time, and it was fun to throw down hundred dollar bills and not care if we won or not. When everyone got warmed up, there was a boisterous sing song around the piano that sounded really good. There were line dancers, clog dancers, a shoot-out and a bank robbery, temperance ladies, and a horse you would not believe. The posse got lost and never did find the bank robbers. Most people got into the mood by coming in western dress, some of them look pretty authentic with the old-time bank and the beautiful bar and the fence rails and bails of hay, the hall looked the part too.

The renovating committee is very grateful for all the help and cooperation of all the groups. It couldn't have been done without them. We are especially happy to see the young people involved in these community events. The Girl Guides and the Minor Hockey were real workers. Thanks also to the Loop Troupe, the Haliburton Highland Cloggers, the Wilberforce Line Dancers, the firemen for running the bar, the Community Police Association, the Monmouth Senior Citizens Club, Kerry Riley and Elsie Lewis for playing the piano, Ruth Strong and the kitchen staff who kept up a great supply of food all evening. And to all those who donated prizes and to Barb Taylor of the Wilberforce school for collecting them. As in all these affairs there are people who take charge and make sure everything runs smoothly, in this case it was Mary Barker and Kathy Agnew. They seemed to be everywhere doing everything and we really thank them for all their efforts.

Thanks also go to Rick Huffman for making the beautiful bar, it was the talk of the evening and helped make the hall look like a real saloon. The bank, made by George Farr was a big success and we thank him as well as Alan Ablett, who did so much work setting up the hall.

The auction at the end of the evening was so much fun, using the fake money, the bidding was fast and furious. Pies went for 18 to 20 thousand, and the oil painting and maple syrup went for over 150,000 each. We are very grateful to Oscar White, a professional auctioneer from Bancroft, who donated his services. Next week I will try and have a list of all who donated the prizes for the auction. Many thanks to all who came to the evening and helped make it the big success it was. It's great to work together and have fun doing it. Let's do it again sometime.

The monthly cribbage tournament at the Legion was held last weekend and the winners were: 1st - Ethel Scott, 2nd - Marie Laurie, 3rd - Walter Cameron, low score was Marie Gay, low games was Pat Gallen and Rosemary Lake. The renovating committee thanks the Legion for cancelling their Monte Carlo Night this month for us.

The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to Brenda Berning at the loss of her mother, Mary Whitney. Mary was a very popular member of the seniors club. She will be missed.

Pat Gallen was very upset when he visited his wife's grave to find the expensive wreath he had placed there has disappeared. He wanted to leave it there until the headstone had been delivered. If anyone knows anything about this he would appreciate hearing from you.

After saying last week that the bears have gone away, today one came to our bird feeder and has been there all afternoon. It is a very small little fellow, but he seemed big enough when he wanted to come in and share our dinner. Later the M.N.R. came with a live trap and took him away to Bracebridge, where he will be kept for the winter. All's well the ends well and he will be safe now.

Stop at Gooderham firehall a must for trick-or-treaters

GOODERHAM

News

Anne Costeloe

Today is an exciting one for all of us as the neighbourhood children go door to door throughout the community. Children have long memories when it comes to treats. I know that mine have a few special stops planned - they know who hands out the best ever toffee apples, and where to warm up with a hot drink!

If you are escorting young ghosts 'n goblins, don't forget to stop in at the firehall. You may find some very unusual looking individuals tending a blazing fire and stirring a brew (of hot chocolate).

Euchre results for Thursday, October 19 are: men's high score - Ron Muirhead; lone hand - Danny Pappas; ladies' high score - Gladys Routcliffe; lone hand - Elva Bates; booby prize - Rob Valm.

Gooderham Elementary School "Student of the Week" is Candice Grimes. Candice is being recognized for her colourful art work. Congratulations!

Group brings world's music to high school

With its unique blend of classical, jazz, Latin, reggae, blues and gospel, the band Anisa will be bringing a bit of the world to the auditorium of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School on November 3.

Anisa, which means Tree of Life, is based in the Dorset/Huntsville area but its theme is global unity. The five members present "an alternative to the reality in which we live, a new reality in which every individual is an integral and equal part of the whole," says a press release. "Honesty, justice, kindness, courtesy, equality, integrity... these are the basics."

The band is donating its talents to help HAVE raise money at its annual concert. Since HAVE improves the lives of people in developing countries through funding water wells and a health centre, it is a perfect match.

The five members are Quinn Allman (percussion), Wayne Barnes (guitar, bass), Gary Caron (guitar, bass, lead vocals), Jean Caron (lead vocals) and Terry Cowan (keys, guitar, lead vocals.)

The concert starts at 8 p.m. at the high school. Tickets are $5 for adults, children under 12 free. There will be an opportunity to make tax refundable charitable donations.

ANISA: Members of the Dorset/Huntsville-based band Anisa will bring their world beat sound to HHSS on November 3 at 8 p.m. to help HAVE raise money for people in developing countries.

Board names new member

Members of the Minden Women's Institute met at the home of Mary Cox on the afternoon of October 18. President Jean Cox welcomed us all and roll call revealed where we might like to live if not in Canada. A new book is now available, "Fed. Women's Institute of Ontario" and if ordered before the end of January we might get this at a reduced rate. She told us that our new board member is Olive McDonald of Cannington. This report was excellent and she learned much from meeting these ladies.

The report from Irene Moore had 14 cards sent on a variety of occasions and collections for 'card fund' and 'pennies for friendship' were taken. We thanked Alice Sedgwick for sending her pennies as well. Some members were to meet with Wendy Flett at Jean Cox's home on October 23.

Convenor, Jeanne Sears, then gave us some information on immigration with discussion on some questions she prepared. All showed their appreciation in the usual way.

Tickets were given out for our sale with proceeds for Lions' Clinic and Christmas hampers with draw at the meeting December 13.

After adjournment it was announced next meeting is at the Terrace, Wednesday, November 15 at 2 p.m. with all ladies welcome and convenor Beulah Hewitt with her talk and roll call "home grown or home-made". Then all enjoyed a social half-hour and lunch served by the committee.

330 THANK YOU

COFFEE BUNCH from Dennis' Restaurant, thank you for thinking of me, but it is you who inspired me. You're all special and deserve to be treated so. Be happy, take care, Vivian.

I WOULD LIKE TO THANK all our friends, neighbours and relations for all the flowers, cards, prayers, visits and food while I was in the Civic Hospital and since I came home. Thanks Leslie for doing my chores and getting meals. I would also like to thank Dr. Heyes in Haliburton and all the doctors and nurses in S.C.C., Civic Hospital.
Last, but not least, my family Allan, Rick and David for all your love and concern, I love you all.
God bless, Helen Hartwick.

MANY THANKS for all the special gifts, cards and wishes on the occasion of my retirement from Red Cross Homemaking, (you all made it so memorable).
Sincerely, Irena.

400 IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of my Father
LLOYD CONEYBEARE
Who Died 10 years ago,
October 30, 1985

"Men like my father cannot die
He is with me still—real in memory as he was in flesh
Loving and beloved forever
How green was my valley then"
- Richard Llewellyn

missed with love from daughter Linda and her husband Michael, children Patrick & Chloe

CONEYBEARE, LLOYD: In loving memory of a cherished father who passed away October 30, 1985.

It is hard when our loved ones
have reached their day,
When they say goodbye to all;
But harder by far when they pass away
With no goodbye at all.
Could we have been there at the hour of death
To catch the last sigh of his parting breath,
His last faint whisper we might have heard,
And breathed in his ear one loving word.
Some day we hope to meet again,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the better
land,
Never to part again.
Love always, John and
Heather. CA

McCOLL, ALFRED - In loving memory of Alfred McColl who passed away November 2, 1987.

I think of him in silence
His name I oft recall.
There is nothing left to answer
But his picture on the wall.
Always remembered by Elsie and family.

WARD - In loving memory of my dear husband "Jim" who passed away November 4, 1988.

As time unfolds another year
Memories keep you ever near,
Silent thoughts of times together
Hold memories that will last forever.
Always remembered, your wife
Ruth.

Are you going south this winter or taking a vacation? Here are a couple of important reminders to add to your checklist.

Check the expiry date of your vehicle ownership and driver's licence. Fines for out of date licences can be costly and time consuming when crossing borders on your return home.

The Ministry of Transportation sends renewal notices approximately two months before the expiry date of your licence. There are provisions for advanced renewals, renewing six months prior to the due date. However, advanced renewals can only be processed through a Ministry of Transportation Driver Education Centre.

A licence can be renewed by mail or by a person other than the licence holder, providing no photo is required and the licence holder has signed the renewal form.

Notify the insurance agent that provides your home owner policy and automobile policy of your plans to be away. Your policy may dictate that failure to notify nullifies your coverage or even terminates your policy.

Check with your agent regarding exactly what your automobile insurance coverage is and if it is adequate for the area you will be travelling in. If you are renting a car, don't assume that your automobile insurance coverage will be acceptable with the lessor.

Have you a question that needs answering? Do you require support or assistance in accessing services? We can help. Contact your Haliburton County Information Centre Inc. Phone (705) 457-2733, Monday to Friday, 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m., 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

In Minden, Mondays only, phone the centre at (705) 286-4100, Mondays only, 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m., 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.
